in a Model Law enacting jurisdiction has been handled by local courts and which jurisdictions can be safely recommended in arbitration or mediation clauses in international commercial agreements Both of the Model Laws are reproduced in full in an appendix With an examination of each provision's legislative history as well as national and subnational adoptions of the Model Laws this work provides a complete picture of global practice in international arbitration and mediation as it exists today taking full account of emerging trends in the enactment process and in case law Business people who agree to arbitrate in one of the 111 recognized Model Law jurisdictions can rely on a secure minimum of rights in the arbitral proceedings and run less risk of being surprised by unwelcome peculiarities of local law International litigation lawyers arbitrators and in house lawyers who are considering arbitrating or mediating in one of the 111 jurisdictions analysed academics in international ADR and national government officials dealing with cross border trade will benefit enormously from this new edition

Current Issues in International Commercial Mediation Veronika Vanisova, 2019 This paper deals with the present debate in the context of the current mediation scene within the scope of international commerce Recently we have witnessed a number of initiatives aimed at improving and increasing the use of mediation Various prominent organizations traditionally providing the background for international arbitration adopted mediation rules reflecting the growing demand for mediation services In EU the Directive on certain aspects of mediation in civil and commercial matters was adopted and various subsequent steps to increase the use of cross border mediation were taken International commercial disputes often tend to be high value cases with a considerable level of complexity and therefore more time and cost consuming compared with domestic commercial disputes Despite the fact that arbitration remains indisputably the most preferred mean of international commercial dispute resolution it also faces a strong criticism It is said that international commercial arbitration became too costly slow and too formalized Parties to the complex commercial disputes therefore look for new dispute resolution mechanisms that would be easier faster and less expensive It would seem that nothing prevents mediation from taking the place of the most popular method of resolving international commercial disputes and therefore becoming a successor of arbitration However serious doubts exist whether mediation can serve as an adequate substitute for arbitration in particular within the scope of international commerce One of the most common complaints is that mediation lacks the international legislative framework such as international arbitration may benefit from This view is based on the claim that parties to the cross border commercial conflicts would find mediation more appealing if the settlements resulting from mediation were subject to legal regime providing for direct enforceability This paper further discusses this issue with particular focus on the nature of agreement resulting from mediation in the light of the proposal of the new international legal instrument prepared by UNCITRAL Working Group II i.e the Singapore Convention It is argued that by granting the settlement agreements that fall within the scope of this new legal instrument a specific legal status behavioral pattern of the parties involved in the international commercial disputes may change dramatically

Beyond International Commercial

Arbitration? The Promise of International Commercial Mediation S.I. Strong, 2014 Although international commercial arbitration has long been the preferred means of resolving cross border business disputes the international corporate community has become increasingly concerned about increasing costs delays and procedural formalities As a result parties are looking for other means of resolving cross border business disputes One of the more popular alternatives is mediation Advocates of mediation extol its many benefits including its ability to resolve disputes more quickly and with fewer costs and formalities than other alternatives However very little research exists on how mediation operates in the international commercial context This Essay therefore considers whether and to what extent international commercial mediation can be said to be superior to international commercial arbitration That question is answered in a three step analysis First this Essay outlines the unique characteristics of international commercial disputes to determine whether such matters are amenable to mediation The discussion then considers what might motivate parties to use international commercial mediation if savings of time cost and procedural formality are taken out of the equation Finally the Essay describes how public international law might be used to improve certain deficiencies in international commercial mediation In so doing the discussion aims to help parties conduct a realistic evaluation of the prospects of international commercial mediation and find a way to ensure the procedure's long term success

Applying the Lessons of International Commercial Arbitration to International Commercial Mediation S.I. Strong, 2018 Traditional analyses of international commercial mediation focus primarily on either the step by step process associated with resolution of particular disputes or the relative merits of mediation over alternatives such as transnational litigation or international commercial arbitration However there is a significant shortage of comprehensive scholarly examinations of the international mediation regime as a whole such as those that are recommended by experts in dispute system design DSD DSD is a unique area of study since it does not seek to promote or analyze a particular methodology or process but instead focuses on larger structural issues so as to improve dispute resolution at a systemic level Only by adopting this type of larger analytical framework can parties policymakers and scholars truly appreciate the forces influencing decisions relating to the resolution of cross border business disputes Although a full DSD analysis would be beyond the scope of the current discussion this chapter considers a number of critical design issues relating to international commercial mediation building off a recent large scale empirical study conducted by the author in this area of law Among other things the chapter applies a default theoretic analysis to the field of international dispute resolution to consider how various visible and invisible nudges affect individual and institutional decisions regarding international commercial mediation In so doing the discussion not only provides an innovative structural perspective on the interplay between litigation arbitration and mediation in the international commercial context but also suggests how the existing system might be redesigned to create a more effective means of resolving cross border business conflicts alternative dispute resolution ADR particularly in relation to mediation clauses Despite the promotion of mediation by dispute resolution providers policy makers and judges use of mediation remains low In particular problems arise when parties lack certainty regarding the legal effect of a mediation clause and the potential uncertainty regarding the binding nature of agreements to pursue mediation is problematic and threatens the growth of ADR This book closely examines the importance and complexity of mediation clauses in commercial contracts to remedy this persistent uncertainty Using comparative law methods and detailed empirical research it explores the creation of a comprehensive framework for the mediation clause Providing valuable insight into the process of ADR and mediation this book will be of interest to academics law makers law students in house council lawyers as well as parties interesting in drafting enforceable mediation clauses

Combining Mediation and Arbitration in International Commercial Dispute Resolution Dilyara Nigmatullina, 2018-06-28 Securing fast inexpensive and enforceable redress is vital for the development of international commerce In a changing international commercial dispute resolution landscape the combined use of mediation and arbitration has emerged as a dispute resolution approach which offers these benefits However to date there has been little agreement on several aspects of the combined use of processes which the literature often explains by reference to the practitioner s legal culture and there is debate as to how appropriate it is for the same neutral to conduct both mediation and arbitration Identifying the main ways of addressing concerns associated with the same neutral conducting both mediation and arbitration same neutral arb med arb this book examines how effectively these methods achieve the goal of fast inexpensive and enforceable dispute resolution evaluating to what extent the perception and use of the same neutral arb med arb depends on the practitioner s legal culture arguing that this is not a one size fits all process Presenting an empirical study of the combined use of mediation and arbitration in international commercial dispute resolution this book synthesises existing ways of addressing concerns associated with the same neutral arb med arb to provide recommendations on how to enhance the use of combinations in the future

Mediation as a Mandatory Pre-condition to Arbitration Ana Ubilava, 2022-11-21 Mandatory investor state mediation ISM as a pre condition to arbitration is the way forward for rebalancing the investor state dispute settlement ISDS regime and tackling its widely criticised shortcomings Presenting a comprehensive doctrinal analysis of ISDS clauses of dozens of treaties this book reveals that simply offering ISM in a voluntary format will not increase its utilisation In this volume Ana Ubilava further debunks four common arguments and misconceptions against mandatory ISM through an innovative empirical analysis of over 600 investor state arbitration cases She also offers recommendations for incorporating mandatory ISM in ISDS as a precondition to arbitration aimed at international policymakers Forming Transnational Dispute
