

Thinking Principles for the Quantum Leader

Just as different times call for different leaders, different times also call for different leadership skills. Quantum physicist David Bohm famously said, “All the problems of the world are problems of thought. If we want to change the world, we must change the way we think.” This reminds us that the most important leadership skills that must match the times are the leader’s thinking skills and habits. For our new Quantum Age, those must be thinking skills and habits that spark constant innovation, maximize human potential, can thrive on uncertainty and rapid change, and that can recognize and benefit from the interconnectivity of events, people, and human needs.

Everything I have written in this book so far has been about the radical shift in mindset required to structure and lead organizations adapted to thrive in the twenty-first century, but here below are some specific thinking habits to guide leaders.

INTUITION/CREATIVE INSIGHT

By intuition I am not referring to the quick, gut-level instinct that many of us experience as an unreflective sense of knowing what is best to do, or what is the best decision to make. Such gut-level instinct can be a very effective way to make spur-of-the-moment decisions or choices where quick action is needed, or when there seems no available, logical stream of thought for making a choice. But as Daniel Khaneman pointed out in
