

DIALOGIC TEACHING AND THE STUDY OF CLASSROOM TALK A DEVELOPMENTAL BIBLIOGRAPHY

Robin Alexander
University of Cambridge

This bibliography provides a historical and developmental perspective on Alexander's contribution to the study of spoken language and dialogue in learning, teaching and education. It starts with observations and theories of dialogic teaching and education in the 1930s during the 1930s and early 1960s. Then follows the Culture and Pedagogy International study led by Robin Alexander's research on dialogic teaching being described. Subsequent articles of dialogic teaching, teaching and the development of the approach in theory, and focus on dialogue between the dialogic triangle and other models of education, with increasing the importance of an epistemological perspective. Next come developments in dialogic teaching, from dialogic teaching in American contexts, to its origins during the early 2000s, the 2002 New York report of the Cambridge Primary Review, which the focus on Pedagogy gives dialogic teaching its role in dialogue but also giving reflections on dialogic work, and the 2005 paper for the Department for Education (DfE) that articulated the UK government's idea of dialogic teaching, with a focus on its importance for the 2010 revised National Curriculum for England. The bibliography then returns to the 2014 DfE government report that introduced the Education Endowment Foundation (EEF) that demonstrates the efficacy of Alexander's approach to dialogic teaching, a paper on developing dialogic and argumentation for the use of 'good' and 'bad' dialogic, Alexander's evidence for the 2015 Ofsted Quality Standard (Quality Standard) and a dialogic teaching Commission, its commission to write a 2015 report of work in this area together with a completely revised version of his book on dialogic teaching and professional development.

Inspiring Dialogue: Talking to Learn in the English Classroom

Mary M. Juzwik,Carlin Borsheim-Black,Samantha Caughlan,Anne Heintz,2013-10-18 Providing a thorough discussion of the benefits of dialogic curriculum in meeting the objectives of the Common Core State Standards this book with its companion website is an ideal resource for teacher development Chapter by chapter the book follows novice teachers as they build a repertoire of practices for planning carrying out and assessing their efforts at dialogic teaching across the secondary English curriculum The text also includes a section to support dialogic teacher learning communities through video study and discourse analysis Book features include dialogic tools for step by step planning within a lesson over the course of a unit or during an entire academic year a user friendly layout designed for new teachers who are pressed for time classroom examples addressing the challenges English teachers may face in stimulating rich learning talk in an era of standardization and a companion website with additional examples activities and course material

Getting Dialogic Teaching into Classrooms Klára Šedřová,Zuzana Šalamounová,Roman Švařiček,Martin Sedláček,2020-10-19 This book contributes to our understanding how teachers can improve classroom dialogue and thereby boost student learning The book reports the results of intervention research based on professional development program for teacher Participating teachers strived with the help of the researchers to instigate a rich and authentic dialogue in their classrooms The data shows that teachers were able to change their talk and interaction patterns and this was followed by a desirable change in their students who started to talk more and expressed more complex thoughts The book not only reports on a successful intervention but most importantly investigates in depth the teacher experiences and ways of learning during the intervention project

Classroom Talk Rupert Knight,2025-02-28 This book summarises the theoretical principles behind talk in school and briefly maps the research tradition in this field It examines the evidence relating to a variety of forms of classroom talk including whole school culture and oracy classroom environments conducive to talk whole class teacher pupil talk and pupil pupil peer talk The final chapter explores up to date issues and influences relating to talk such as mastery learning informed by international comparisons Firmly grounded in evidence and the latest thinking the book also offers practical advice for everyday implementation and evaluation of these principles Evidence based teaching is fast becoming a new orthodoxy There are many strong voices including policy voices advocating its adoption Understanding the underlying principles allows you to better evaluate the benefits of different approaches to evidence based teaching and how they relate to your own school context

The Centrality of Exploratory Talk in Dialogic Teaching and Learning Janet Louise McConaghy,University of Alberta. Department of Elementary Education,2014 Every day children and teachers at all levels of schooling engage in classroom talk for a variety of purposes as a natural and essential aspect of teaching and learning and in the development of social relationships Over the years educators have come to see talk as not only a major means of communication or as an instructional strategy for effective teaching but as a powerful tool for thinking learning and understanding We now know that when students are given the time and the opportunity to engage in informal conversations in an exploratory way to generate and sort out ideas hypothesize test and clarify new ways of thinking talking together can play a vital role in their understanding and construction of meaning Through the established and ongoing development of research in classroom discourse and meaning making the interest in the centrality of talk as a mode of learning in pedagogical practices such as dialogic teaching and inquiry learning has rapidly increased However research also suggests that opportunities for exploratory talk to function as an inquiry based and dialogic process for students learning and meaning making in all subject areas are often left untapped This study is an exploration into students use of exploratory talk as an interactive and dialogic process for thinking learning and constructing meaning within the social setting of a small group discussion This qualitative study took place with four students and one teacher in a Grade 6 classroom of 30 students over a period of 6 months It was carried out during the usual class times when the students were provided with opportunities and sustained time to discuss curriculum related topics of interest From a socio constructivist perspective I pursued an interpretive inquiry methodological approach which is rooted in the study of experience and meaning The primary source of data collection was audio recorded episodes of student talk Others data sources included interviews researcher s notes and journal entries Analysis and interpretation of the data revealed three major interrelated features that influenced the effect of exploratory talk on the students construction of meaning 1 the social context of the talk 2 the verbal and cognitive strategies used by the students and 3 the teacher s role in mediating the talk through intervention Insights and findings from this study show how the students engagement in exploratory talk played a crucial role in their finding their own voice building their own knowledge and deepening their understanding of themselves others and the world around them This study brings together the notion of exploratory talk as a tool of inquiry and the pedagogical practice of dialogic teaching in the classroom It demonstrates the interdependence and the interrelationship between exploratory talk and a pedagogy that is based on valuing students talk in learning interactively as they come to their own understandings I offer this study as a contribution to the developing research in classroom discourse and to support a dialogic approach to curriculum and to teaching and learning practices in today s diverse and socially changing classroom communities

New Approaches to the Investigation of Language Teaching and Literature Garcés-Manzanera, Aitor, Carrillo García, María Encarnación, 2023-04-11 In the last two decades the field of language and literature teaching has experienced considerable growth as a result of the wide array of new methodological avenues that have arisen from different angles This paradigm shift has paved the way for the integration of newly conceived didactic resources such as the mediation of social networks for learning language or the interdisciplinarity of culturally mediated language education It is crucial to understand this shift in order to ensure students receive the best education possible New Approaches to the Investigation of Language Teaching and Literature presents an overview of the ongoing methodological tools practices research designs and strategies used in language and literature teaching and provides education researchers and practitioners with empirically sustained evidence of teaching strategies that may be implemented in language education Covering key topics such as language skills adult learners digital literacy and learning aids this reference work is ideal for researchers scholars academicians practitioners educators and students

Science Education Research and Practice in Europe Doris Jorde, Justin Dillon, 2012-12-17 Each volume in the 7 volume series The World of Science Education reviews research in a key region of the world These regions include North America South and Latin America Asia Australia and New Zealand Europe Arab States and Sub Saharan Africa The focus of this Handbook is on science education in Europe In producing this volume the editors have invited a range of authors to describe their research in the context of developments in the continent and further afield In reading this book you are invited to consider the historical social and political contexts that have driven developments in science education research over the years A unique feature of science education in Europe is the impact of the European Union on research and development over many years A growing number of multi national projects have contributed to the establishment of a community of researchers increasingly accepting of methodological diversity That is not to say that Europe is moving towards homogeneity as this volume clearly shows

A Retrospective Study of a Dialogic Elementary Classroom Lynn Astarita Gatto, 2021-12-24 This book uniquely combines data from a study focused on the use of dialogic instruction in an elementary classroom with analysis of students retrospective beliefs about the classroom environment interactions and authority Through this retrospective methodology the text offers valuable insight into the long term impacts of discursive practices on young learners attitudes to learning and their educational trajectories Analysis also serves to further understandings of how the classroom environment can function as a living dialogue in which authority in respect to talk knowledge sharing and curricular choices serves as an interactional accomplishment and means of social justice This book will be a valuable resource for researchers and academics with an interest in classroom discourse and critical pedagogy It will be of particular interest to those with a focus on elementary education

Cohen,2018-08-15 Recent academic research criticizes the effectiveness of traditional lecturing methods and instead shows the pedagogical effectiveness of active learning methods especially discussion based education Drawing on the dialogic writings of Bakhtin Freire and Habermas this study reviews the five primary themes cited in active learning research improvements in student concentration socialization in disciplinary norms scaffolding towards higher critical thinking inclusion of non traditional learning styles and reduction of student absenteeism Testing these findings in a discussion based undergraduate college education classroom this study finds significant improvements towards higher critical thinking skills increased student concentration and reduced student absenteeism However the study finds questionable effectiveness of discussion based teaching for socializing undergraduate college education students in disciplinary norms Teacher Education Anthony Selkirk, Maria Tichenor,2009 This work evaluates teacher professional development programmes These programmes are evaluated in terms of participants classroom teaching behaviour as assessed by their school students perceptions of their classroom learning environments Exploring Dialogic Teaching with Middle and Secondary English Language Arts Teachers Mark Andrew Sulzer,2015 The ways in which teachers and students speak to each other in middle and secondary English language arts classrooms is integral to the type of learning that occurs there Ways of engaging in classroom talk can be characterized as teacher centered or student centered Teacher centered classroom talk typically unfolds as a sequence of three steps a teacher asks a question with a predetermined answer a student responds and the teacher evaluates the response In contrast student centered classroom talk is engaging collaborative and reciprocal in these scenarios teachers and students both ask questions that have multiple answers students talk to other students and the discussions grow organically Working with students in the student centered way is called dialogic teaching and while we know dialogic teaching is beneficial to student learning we also know engaging in this type of teaching is fraught with difficulties This study sought to explore these difficulties by examining the lived experience of dialogic teaching through the perspectives of six middle and secondary English language arts teachers The study offers portraits of each teacher's respective experiences as well as themes that cut across all the teachers' experiences Insights are offered about dialogic teaching in terms of lesson planning and attitudes toward students these insights are termed dialogic by design and dialogic by disposition respectively

A Dialogic Teaching Companion Robin Alexander, 2020-03-04 Building on Robin Alexander's landmark Towards Dialogic Teaching this book shows how and why the dialogic approach has a positive impact on student engagement and learning It sets out the evidence examines the underpinning ideas and issues and offers guidance and resources for the planning implementation and review of effective dialogic teaching in a wide range of educational settings Dialogic teaching harnesses the power of talk to engage students interest stimulate their thinking advance their understanding expand their ideas and build and evaluate argument empowering them for lifelong learning and for social and democratic engagement Drawing on extensive published research as well as the high profile 5000 student trial and independent evaluation of Alexander's distinctive approach to dialogic teaching in action this book Presents the case for treating talk as not merely incidental to teaching and learning but as an essential tool of education whose exploitation and development require understanding and skill Explores questions of definition and conceptualisation in the realms of dialogue argumentation and dialogic teaching revealing the similarities and differences between the main approaches Discusses evidence that has enriched the debate about classroom talk in relation to oracy argumentation student voice and philosophy for children as well as dialogic teaching itself Identifies what it is about dialogic teaching that makes a difference to students thinking learning and understanding Presents the author's rationale and framework for dialogic teaching now completely revised and much expanded Proposes a professional development strategy for making dialogic teaching happen which like the framework has been successfully trialled in schools Lists resources from others working in the field to support further study and development Includes an extensive bibliography Robin Alexander's A Dialogic Teaching Companion like its popular predecessor Towards Dialogic Teaching aims to support the work of all those who are interested in the quality of teaching and learning but especially trainee and serving teachers teacher educators school leaders and researchers
