The spontaneous, audacious voice of the speaking woman in medieval chansons de femme has delighted and puzzled critics for many years. Some call the voice folkloric, and others claim it is a courtly convention. This new sociolinguistic study examines the poetics of female speech within a dominantly male-voiced body of poetry. Using for material the extant lyrics in Mozarabic, Spanish, Galician, Portuguese, Provençal, Old French, and Italian, the book first discovers formal patterns of fragmentation and incorporation. Then the dramatic persona of the female speaker is identified by cultural characteristics of speech style, economic class, and political position. Finally, the conventions that govern the use of female speech are shown to pre-date the medieval period and persist to our own time. The New International Encyclopædia, 1925. Printers' Ink, 1947-04. The New International Encyclopaedia, 1929.
