

Module 1 – Drawing Set Organization

1.1 SHEET IDENTIFICATION

The sheet identification format typically used in traditional construction drawing sets uses a consistent set of sheet numbers, including drawing, assembly, and detail sheets distributed more consistently in drawing sets regarding sheets. These techniques have also provided an opportunity to expand the use of the sheet identifier. Accordingly, the sheet identification format is a key part of V500.

1.1.1 Standard Sheet Identification

The sheet identification format is applicable to both manual and CAD drawings/production. It is consistent with standards established for a wide range of project types. The V500 sheet identification format standard uses consistent sheet numbering as follows:

- 1. The drawing designer – consisting of one alphanumeric character and a hyphen or two alphanumeric characters.
- 2. The sheet type identifier – consisting of one numerical character.
- 3. The sheet sequence number – consisting of two numerical characters.

The use of the drawing designer identifier identifies the sheet as a member of a project. A sheet type identifier identifies the type information on the sheet is followed by the sheet sequence number.

Regarding the use of sheet sequence numbers, V500 allows two levels of sheet identification. Below is a list of examples of sheet numbers used to best represent all the possibilities of the drawings. Level 1 offers the simplest sheet numbering format and would be suitable for all but the most complex projects. Level 2 provides guidance for complex or special types of projects. Refer to V500 Appendix A – Drawing Designator V500 section 1.1.2 for examples of the two levels of sheet identification.

Note that the hyphen in the Level 1 drawing designator is a required sheet number in the presence of the second character. The hyphen is optional rather than a required part due to the use of the “00” substructure. The hyphen, accordingly, is implemented for sheet to indicate the hyphen when appropriate regarding sheet set sheet numbers in the name.

1.1.2 Drawing Designer

The first component of the sheet identification format, the drawing designer, is based on the numbering system of architectural discipline designers, using either a single alphanumeric character and a hyphen or two to an alphanumeric character (level 2).

The drawing designer denotes the category of subject matter contained on the sheet in the sheet description. It must appear
