Course Description: Life science is the study of living things in the world around us. How these living things relate to each other and to their environment is an important part of this study. Life science is not simply a collection of facts, but also includes learning to think logically like scientists. Science is a way of knowing, a process for gaining knowledge and understanding of the natural world. It is not enough for students to read about science. They should observe, inquire, question, formulate and test hypotheses, analyze data, report, and evaluate findings.

This course introduces the basic concepts of the cell, including its structure and function, and organization. Living organisms, ranging from the simplest bacteria to complex animals, are surveyed in all five kingdoms. Environmental concerns and its protection are also examined. Course work includes hands-on activities, lectures, demonstrations, films, and independent projects.
