INTRODUCTION

Electrical wiring is an electrical system of cabling and linked devices like switches, distribution boards, plugs, and light equipment in a building. Wiring is subject to protection standards to strategy with installation. Allowable wire and cable types and sizes are specified according to the circuit operating voltage and electric current capability, with further restrictions on the environmental conditions, such as ambient temperature range, moisture levels, and exposure to sunlight and chemicals. Associated circuit protection, control and distribution devices within a building's wiring system are subject to voltage, current and functional specification. Wiring protection codes vary via locality[1-3], state or region. The International Electro-technical Commission (IEC) is "struggling to harmonise wiring standards between member countries, while significant differences in design and installation necessities still exist. An electrical cable is a rally of one or more wires running side by side or bundled, which is applied to transfer electric current.

A cable rally is the composition of one or additional electrical cables and their corresponding connectors.^[1] A cable rally is not necessarily suitable for connecting two devices but can be a partial product (e.g. to be soldered onto a printed circuit board with a connector mounted to the building). Cable assemblies can besides take the system of a cable tree or cable harness⁷, applied to connect numerous terminals together[4-6].

Types of Electrical Wires: There are essentially 5 types of electrical wires[7-10]:

A. Triplex Electrical Wires: Triplex electrical wires are commonly applied in single-phase service drop conductors, among the power pole besides weather heads. They are composed of two insulated aluminum wires wrapped with a third bare wire that is applied as a public neutral. The neutral is commonly of a smaller gauge besides grounded at each the electric meter plus the transformer
