The Royal Engineers Journal , 1930 The Army Quarterly , 1928 If War Comes Tomorrow? General Makhmut Akhmetovich Gareev, 2013-11-05 Military affairs have been affected by major changes in recent years The bipolar world of two superpowers has gone The Cold War and the global military confrontation that accompanied it have ended A new military and political order has emerged in the world but the world has not become more stable indeed wars and armed conflict have become much more common Forecasting the contours of future armed conflict is no easy task at such times but this is the primary objective of If War Comes Tomorrow Focusing on the impact of new technologies General Gareev considers whether war is still a continuation of politics by other means or whether the political ideological and technical transformation have broken that connection He explores the linkage between threats to Russian national interests and war as an instrument of policy in great detail and concludes that there is very little prospect either of nuclear war or widespread conventional war However he does see local armed conflicts and local wars increasing with greater emphasis on subversion He argues that coming decades will see a shift towards a reliance upon indirect means to accomplish limited political ends and analyses both information warfare and the revolution in military affairs from this perspective

which such lessons can be applied to subsequent conflicts Bernard Brodie and the Foundations of American Nuclear Strategy Barry Howard Steiner, 1991 Steiner analyzes how and why Brodie's understanding of weapons of unparalleled explosive force led him to posit the need for revolutionary strategic thinking in broadminded analytic method and in the focus upon cities as nuclear targets He shows the tremendous effect Brodie's work had on the intellectual climate in which policy is determined particularly in his frequent combatting of conventional wisdom
