Always Magic In The Air:

Always Magic in the Air Ken Emerson, 2005 Profiles fourteen songwriters responsible for such hits as Jailhouse Rock Uptown and You've Lost That Lovin' Feeling explaining how their blending of music from different genres affected social consciousness

Always Magic in the Air Ken Emerson, 2006-09-26 During the late 1950s and early 1960s after the shock of Elvis Presley and before the Beatles spearheaded the British Invasion fourteen gifted young songwriters huddled in midtown Manhattan's legendary Brill Building and a warren of offices a bit farther uptown and composed some of the most beguiling and enduring entries in the Great American Songbook Always Magic in the Air is the first thorough history of these renowned songwriters tunesmiths who melded black white and Latino sounds integrated audiences before America desegregated its schools and brought a new social consciousness to pop music

The Cambridge Companion to the Singer-Songwriter Katherine Ann Williams, Justin A. Williams, 2016-02-25 This Companion explores the historical and theoretical contexts of the singer-songwriter tradition and includes case studies of singer-songwriters from Thomas D. Urfey through to Kanye West

"Jews, Race and Popular Music" Jon Stratton, 2017-07-05 Jon Stratton provides a pioneering work on Jews as a racialized group in the popular music of America Britain and Australia during the twentieth and early twenty-first centuries Rather than taking a narrative historical approach the book consists of a number of case studies looking at the American British and Australian music industries Stratton's primary motivation is to uncover how the racialized positioning of Jews which was sometimes similar but often different in each of the societies under consideration affected the kinds of music with which Jews have become involved Stratton explores race as a cultural construction and continues discussions undertaken in Jewish Studies concerning the racialization of the Jews and the stereotyping of Jews in order to present an in-depth and critical understanding of Jews race and popular music
