Broken Homes Joanna C. Colcord, 2015-08-05 Excerpt from Broken Homes A Study of Family Desertion and Its Social Treatment No Less thoughtful a critic of men and manners than Joseph Conrad has remarked recently that a universal experience is exactly the sort of thing which is most difficult to appraise justly in the individual instance The saying might have been made the motto of this book for in its pages Miss Colcord with all the eagerness of the newer school of social workers bent upon understanding upon making allowances seeks that just appraisal to which Conrad refers Marital infelicities and broken homes are not universal fortunately but some of the human weaknesses which lead to them are very nearly so To one who brings a long perspective to any theme in social work Broken Homes suggests the successive stages through which the art of social case work has progressed Twenty years ago the editor of this Series was responsible for the following sentences in an annual report One of our most difficult problems has been how to deal with deserted wives with children One good woman whose husband had left her for the second time more than a year ago declared often and emphatically that she would never let him come back About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
