Burma A Strategic Perspective:

Burma Marvin C. Ott,1996 Burma: a Strategic Perspective Andrew Selth,2001 Burma: A Strategic Perspective Marvin Ott,1996 During the past decade the United States has condemned the actions of the Burmese government halted all bilateral economic and military assistance suspended most favored nation trading status and generally tried to isolate the oppressive regime in Rangoon Despite these policies of isolation and sanction the regime continues to be as dismissive of human rights as ever Meanwhile a growing economic political and military embrace of Burma by China has not gone unnoticed by the members of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations ASEAN ASEAN has argued that Burma should be integrated into the region and that policies that quarantine it only backfire since a country that has welcomed isolation cannot be punished by it Thus not only might the United States fail to change the behavior of the Burmese regime it might also let China develop a quasi protectorate role over it and allow the human rights issue to divide the United States from its ASEAN friends Burma in Strategic Perspective :. Lewis M. Stern,2009 Strategic Forum ,1994

Strategic Forum, Number 249, October 2009. Burma in Strategic Perspective: Renewing Discussion of Options ,2009 U S policy has sought to nudge the junta in Burma toward a more reasonable approach to its dilemma either in the form of managing Aung San Suu Kyi s house arrest in a semitransparent fashion allowing the release of imprisoned prodemocracy activists and the National League for Democracy cadre agreeing to visits from United Nations special representatives or accepting regional advice and guidance at critical moments But Burma is a minuet dramatizing the one step forward two steps backward description of progress Even as the administration of President Barack Obama commits itself in principle to reaching out to Burma events conspire against another effort to coax the junta toward a reasonable regionally acceptable solution to its hard edge Exigencies occasioned by Cyclone Nargis compelled a limited opening in the aftermath of the humanitarian crisis but these were no watershed events signaling a more reasonable posture by the junta toward its neighbors toward the West or toward the United States Nevertheless they did represent instances of change and they did provide the foundation for regrouping to determine whether there was a basis for altering some U S tactical approaches to Burma The question is to what extent do these slight changes represent a real basis for confidence in forward movement Burma's Arms Procurement Programme Andrew Selth,1995 Burma's North Korean Gambit Andrew Selth,2004 Burma's Order of Battle Andrew Selth,2000 Burma and Nuclear Proliferation Andrew Selth,2007

Burma's Muslims Andrew Selth,2003 Burma's China Connection and the Indian Ocean Region Andrew Selth,2003 Myanmar K. Yhome,2008 Asian Security and China, 2000-2010 K. Santhanam,Srikanth Kondapalli,2004 The Recent Rise In China S Economic Technological And Military Fields And Its Changing Policy Formulations Have Implications On How China Interacts With Other Countries This Subject Has Attracted The Attention Of Several Asian And Nonasian Countries For Its Impact On Different Aspects Of Asian Security This Book Is A Collection Of 43 Articles From

Wellknown Scholars And Officials From About 20 Countries They Reflect On Major Aspects Of Asian Security China S Modernisation Efforts And Its Interactions With Different Countries In Asia And Major Powers During 2000-2010 They Also Cover Nonmilitary Security Challenges During This Period These Highquality Papers Would Be A Valuable Resource And A Ready Research Reckoner For China Scholars And Policy Makers Around The World 18Th Jan 2004 China's Strategic View June Teufel Dreyer,1996 Although the militant rhetoric of past decades has abated the leadership of the People s Republic of China PRC is profoundly dissatisfied with the international status quo The dissolution of the Soviet Union weakened China s ability to wrest concessions from the United States by threatening to move closer to the USSR and from the USSR by threatening to support the United States While some leverage can and is gained by negotiating with the major successor state to the Soviet Union this leverage is more limited than in the past The Russian Republic is significantly weaker than the USSR and finds aid and investment from capitalist states such as the United States useful to its rebuilding efforts It is unlikely to jeopardize this aid by becoming too closely associated with Chinese positions that these countries oppose Other indications are that the Chinese leadership s goal is to replace the United States as the hegemonic power in the Asian region It sees the PRC as an ascendant power while America which has withdrawn from bases in the Philippines downsized its military personnel slashed its defense procurement programs and consigned its navy to a littoral role is seen as declining Should China assume the role of hegemon there are likely to be territorial readjustments in the region The PRC contests ownership of several different islands and island chains with no less than six other countries and there are concerns within India that the close relationship that has developed between China and the State Law and Order Restoration Council SLORC in Burma may have a Chinese presence in the Indian Ocean as one of its goals Though Sino Indian relations have been quite good in recent years there are unresolved issues between the two countries and China s victory over India in a 1962 border war is a painful memory for many Indians The Chinese People s Liberation Army PLA plays a dual role in the country s strategic view it participates in the formulation of strategy at the same time as it is charged with implementing that strategy The apparent active involvement of higher echelons of the PLA in formulating national policy sets the Chinese military apart from the Western ideal in which politicians decide upon policy and the military implements it Several caveats are in order here Mao Zedong formulated a principle that is not very different from the Western ideal of the separation of army and politics the party must always control the gun the gun must never control the party And Clausewitz though saying that there can be no question of a purely military evaluation of a great strategic issue nor of a purely military scheme to solve it also cautioned that political leaders should be careful not to ask the impossible of the military and advised them to consult with senior commanders in planning and conducting military operations 1 Finally virtually all the recent information indicating that the PLA is exerting pressure for a harder line internationally comes from the Hong Kong press and cannot be confirmed through mainland sources Hence the dichotomy between the role of the military in the PRC and that in the West may be

overdrawn Analysts of recent Chinese foreign policy portray it as a struggle between soft liners and hard liners Those who espouse a soft line believe that the PRC s best interests are served by negotiating settlements to China s territorial disputes with other nations and engaging foreign powers in dialogue on contentious issues such as trade disputes and intellectual property rights Hard liners assume a more defiant posture The doctrine of absolute sovereignty the unilateral right of the PRC to annex territory it considers part of the sacred territory of China and a skeptical attitude toward the claims of other countries characterize their stance
